The Mc-Dug's have now plow with seed attachment fits right into our program of cost reduction. It is a good idea to use a crop on summer fallow in the star oils and greases in about the same length of time that you can get a crop in and it considerably less time than you could plow it. All this is done without sacrifice in the quality of the crops come from the way. The surface soil beneath that L. J. is thoroughly mixed, Adams was the victim, cracks are closed up pick pockets recent weeds are killed, and, better stay at home the seed is covered to a future L. J., no uniformity. If you do not have the new plowing equipment see the Mc-Dug's radio-plow equipment for less money with all attachments than you expect. You will like its strong, sturdy con. Five nations are now destruction and you will be operating for the be more than pleased protection of wild life with its money-saving in Africa. It seems the

High School Paper Huge Success

Queen Mary's Message Read at W. J. Meeting

The students of the Champion High School published, last Tuesday, the second of the three yearly editions of their paper "The Commentator".

The paper, consisting of some 25 pages, is entirely composed of material written or collected by High School students. The funds to cover the cost of publication were raised by means of advertisements submitted by the local business men. The front cover, designed by Yvonne Griffin, which shows a skier in full equipment is an excellent introduction to the delights to follow. There is printed within every type of literature that one could wish for, ranging from humor to tragedy, with little drama besides. Two of the students, Anna Baker and Margaret Faith expressed their opinion on the new Grade nine courses and give adequate proof that the students of this school are interested in education and its effect on their futures.

The standard of the jokes and the less serious material published shows plainly that there are a number of students who possess a sense of humor. We advise that you obtain a copy of the paper at your first opportunity so that you too may be convinced of the abilities of the students.

The Chronicle wishes to take this opportunity to compliment the staff of the "Commentator" on its excellent work.

Badminton Club Bring

Season to a Close

The Badminton ball was the scene of considerable activity last Wednesday afternoon when Champions of the past, present and future, met in exhibition games which provided entertainment for the many spectators who were in attendance.

The Club brought a very successful season to conclusion last week, with only one regret, viz. that road conditions this winter have made inter-town games impossible.

There still remains the district tournament which is scheduled for March 31st as Champions.

One day the King's Profit predicted fine weather, but while driving in the Country the King stopped to chat with a Farmer who remarked that it was going to rain. The King said not, but the Farmer insisted that it was. In a short time it rained, so the King anger at getting wet, turned his carriage and left the Farmer. The next morning the King asked the Farmer what the day would bring, and the Farmer said he did not know. The King was angry and said to the Farmer: How did you know yesterday? The Farmer answered that he had a Jackass on his farm that brayed when it was going to rain, so the King fired the Farmer and hired the Jackass. Since then all Weather Prophets have been Jackasses.

V. S. McClure, who has spent the winter in Spokane, returned to Champion Monday evening.

THERE'S no risk of offending outhouse odors when you use Gillett's Pure Flake Lye regularly. Just sprinkle half a tin over contents of closet—once a week. There's no need to remove contents—Gillett's does it for you.

Gillett's Lye in the household saves hours of heavy work—cleans clogged drains, scrubs dirty pots and pans, quickly flushes away ugly toilet stains. Keep a tin handy.

FREE BOOKLET—The Gillett's Lye Booklet tells how to use this powerful cleanser for dozens of tasks. Send for a free copy to Standard Brands Ltd., Fraser Ave. and Liberty St., Toronto, Ont.

Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water.

Restoration Of Fertility

The lack of restoring moisture reserves and resultant fertility of the soil of the prairies is a big one. It is quite evident why will have to be undertaken on large scale plan before wide-spread results can be ensured and will have to be carried out on a co-operative basis with the backing of well matured and carefully thought out plans.

In this column some months ago it was pointed out that desert can be created where there are no deserts and one can be seen observation and has given some consideration to what has been taking place since the country was settled who will not contribute to the belief that to some degree the devastation which has been wrought by dust storms and drought on the open prairies in the past few years is attributable to wasteful and heedless methods of cultivation of the soil.

To work extend last month from the prairie provinces to the west, which is agricultural belt, and one can see that methods and other doubtful practices is problematical and cannot be scientifically measured, but that the severity of the drought was accentuated by such practices is undoubtedly and certainly some of the damage wrought by dust storms could have been avoided if certain basic principles had been observed.

It may be taken generally, however, that the damage done is irreparable and that adoption of appropriate methods of cultivation and conservation, intelligently applied, can go a long way towards avoidance of repetition of serious loss and may even, in certain instances, improve the productivity of the soil. If human agencies can create desert conditions it is not unnatural to suppose that the same agencies can undo the harm which has been caused, though this process of rehabilitation may be a lengthy and expensive one.

Some valuable evidence of the feasibility of man-made plans to restore moisture and productivity to the soil was given recently by W. L. McTavish, managing editor of the Winnipeg Tribune in an address to the Regina Board of Trade when he outlined the satisfactory outcome of a rehabilitation project he is following.

"A year ago we dammed the outlet where the waters of Lake Manitoba descend to Lake Winnipeg. The level of Lake Manitoba was brought back in a year to its former point and then a year later were in the Portage Plains where water had been deep wells as the waters of Lake Manitoba receded were brought back to their level. After the first week in June, which nevertheless produced good crops. The answer was to be found in a higher water table in the subsoil, consequent upon the higher water levels of Lake Manitoba. There was moisture underlaying the Portage Plains last summer in the whole area."

The result of this scientific experiment should furnish a lot of consolation to the people of the prairie provinces. It demonstrates that with forethought and the application of understandable scientific principles to the problem man can do something more than just sit down supinely and hope for rain. It also will help him to help himself; that there is real hope for the future.

It is true that not all sections of the prairie provinces could be benefited by a project similar to the Lake Manitoba dam scheme, but other projects and other methods are adapted to other districts, as appropriately pointed out by Mr. McTavish when he said:

"We have got to think of every way we can—strip farming, drainage, legume crops and everything of that sort that we can use to aid in this work, and we have got to work relentlessly to impound in the west every drop of moisture that falls from the heavens. We must impound it by means of dams, we must impound it by means of trees and grass lands, we must bring up our water table in the subsoil. We must work to conserve moisture, to impound the air."

"It is a job for the next ten or twenty years, but we should be at it with all the energy and all the brain power we can command. We have done a good deal towards destroying this western country. Now we have the job of rebuilding it."

A lot of talk has been recently about governments being urged to adopt crop insurance schemes which may or may not be economically feasible. Whether such insurance schemes are put into effect or not, undoubtedly projects and practices which will effectively conserve moisture for the benefit of the crops will do more for agriculture and will probably be more remunerative and less expensive in the long run, hence, cheaper and better insurance against one of the major and periodic hazards.

Must Keep Moving

We have just heard a unique explanation of why an internationally known orchestra, touring the world, was carrying the "Va-Tro-nol" card he was expected to be given. One of the officials put it this way: "He worked hard and got to the top, but he made the mistake of thinking he could stand still on the top without trying to go higher and do better."

The Cheerful Worker

Is One Who Starts Day Right With Good Breakfast

The world would be a nicer place in which to live if more people observed a need for breakfast. This applies more particularly to city folks. The cheerful citizen in business is such because he is fortified by a good breakfast. The result of his being limbered up the table and rush the first meal to get to work and to land downtown canteens cranks and becomes unpleasant in all the morning transactions. Breakfast should be a well deserved leisurely meal in preparation whatever the day may bring. Fortified with a satisfying breakfast man can meet even a fight with courage and equanimity. Of course, many men do not advise spouses breakfast, but you can tell the abstemious breakers of the fast in their mornings by their demeanor and manners in their customary intercourses. In the morning they are as spry as the rush-counter breakfasters.

And the breakfast time habit has been encouraged by prepared food manufacturers. It is a vitamin-rich delight to come in our breakfast foods but time and not fast time. But housewives, who are not, of course, to be blamed, are for quickly prepared dishes for breakfast. At the same time another dimension of a wage-worker with the cranky breakfast-time feeling, or hangover perhaps. With all the rush of that morning meal there is a fraying of everybody's nerves and the spirit of the worker. Who is interested in a breakfast smile to start a happier day. This world would be much more humane and crime might be curbed if we prepared a new dogma for breakfasts, and took time to observe the rites.—Branson Sun.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out Bed in the Morning Ready to go

The liver is a most important organ of health into your body daily. If this bile is not secreted in sufficient quantity it just detoxifies the body. Gas backs up in the intestines and the body goes to the head, and you feel sour, tired and listless.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get rid of the waste products of the liver as well. It takes a good, old fashioned laxative to move the bowels and get rid of the load.

A more bowel movement doesn't always get rid of the waste products of the liver as well. It takes a good, old fashioned laxative to move the bowels and get rid of the load.

SORE THROAT?

Quick!

Quick with "ASPIRIN"

For the most amazing relief from sore throat due to colds, do this: Crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in ½ glass of warm water; then gargle with it until the sore throat is well back. This puts the soothing analgesic principle of "Aspirin" in direct contact with the sensitive, inflamed membranes of your throat. Thus rawness and pain are eased almost entirely and you have wonderful comfort. You'll say it's the most marvelous way to relieve a sore throat you ever heard of. And the doctor, we are sure, will approve it.

• "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada by the Buyer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario.

London Firm Has Made Walking Sticks For 104 Years

Fashion's whims have markedly reversed with the modern passing of a London firm that had been making walking-sticks for 104 years, says Pearson's London Weekly. In the leisurely days of old, no man was completely equipped unless he had a smart walking-stick. Now-a-days with a great increase in sports and motoring, walking-sticks have gone out of fashion and the demand for them has dropped to a minimum. They used to supply sticks to every corner of the world, including distant Tibet and Iceland; but even those countries no longer want walking-sticks—Wall Street Journal.

THE YELLOW BRAIR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside
By PATRICK SLATER

By arrangement with Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

CHAPTER I.

Out in the Ontario countryside, the late spring is a pleasing and sun-mellowing season of the year. It commences once the seeding is done; and lasts until the patterning rains start to wash the earth, bringing some time about the murmur of a waterfall. I had been down to the lower hundred saulting the young cattle. They looked to be doing fine.

About the old lawn and in the fence corners, the stinking barbedwires were bent over, and the grasses had sprung up in the air—and looking healthy. It is a caution that requires fixing about a farm; and continually requiring it. I got the axe from the stable, and then, after sinking its sharp blade well below the crowns of those bushes with a view to destroying them utterly and in orderly detail, I have carried on a pointed warfare against them on the farm, so that, for nearly forty years, making rashes was everyone's foible at times in the early days; and a red-headed hired boy once cracked a good one at my expense:

"Oy mens hills, the farmer grabs along."

And like the Indian, chants a dismal song.

On many days, out you see him stalk.

To tomahawk the yellow young.

In this, his hobby, he has always seemed to me a sere and gloomy season. I have seldom seen men come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves—and never in a bailey have I seen such a sight. The nightingale sang, and came upon me with an abrupt suddenness. The air aites a bit in the early morning; and here and there, the faint ringing of the bells against the trees and grasses crowding upon me, Nature seemed to say: "Ah, ah, old thing! We've got you on the run at last!" Even the field mice, hearing my greetings, have become very gaudy and pasturing lands; and I have failed to the low estate of a lean-necked, grass-laden farmer. Father in Heaven, what have I done to deserve this?

The Queen Mary has already plans to frost her sovereign rights. If the crops have been poor, the scanty contents of the barns distress us; and the mowers have been over-busy, the mowing offers are more than dressing still. The farmer's a gambler's job. Old Mother Earth tells the houses for him. In the spring, he has laid his wager, and his hope hangs high.

It is pleasant of the young gamblers to be outside pasturing, and stretch the long, undulated of their dreams. It is sweet to smell the pungent, homely earth in its creative mood. It is refreshing to feel the mild sunshines strike down, easily warming things into a sort of opalescent emerald. This is the season for loafing a bit about an Ontario farm; and, in the afternoon that now conceives us, I beg to advise you to go to my and my house, where we are many and happy. The hired man was going through the slow motions of mending the orchard fence. His stomach must have stood the test; we were getting better and more comfortable now, having some time about the murmur of a waterfall. I had been down to the lower hundred saulting the young cattle. They looked to be doing fine.

About the old lawn and in the fence corners, the stinking barbedwires were bent over, and the grasses had sprung up in the air—and looking healthy. It is a caution that requires fixing about a farm; and continually requiring it. I got the axe from the stable, and then, after sinking its sharp blade well below the crowns of those bushes with a view to destroying them utterly and in orderly detail, I have carried on a pointed warfare against them on the farm, so that, for nearly forty years, making rashes was everyone's foible at times in the early days; and a red-headed hired boy once cracked a good one at my expense:

The Queen Mary has already plans to frost her sovereign rights. If the crops have been poor, the scanty contents of the barns distress us; and the mowers have been over-busy, the mowing offers are more than dressing still. The farmer's a gambler's job. Old Mother Earth around to open the road and out of the pouch of the single-stepper a young woman who fluttered to ward me. Not that I could say she was a young person, right off, at first. The way women dress nowadays, it is next to impossible to tell, offhand, who they are—they are over forty.

"Are you Mr. Patrick Slater?" she enquired; and her voice was low and pleasing.

I dislike a woman who uses her name as a sounding board.

"Yes," I said. "I am old Daddy Slater."

Then I found myself sitting with a very pretentious girl whose eyes were as bright as suns, and I looked me square in the face. I served as straight as a whip; and the girl was as straight as Sunday with the neatness of the pretty girl—so completely and smiling.

I do not mention her name, because, as she says, it is a secret.

"No, no, no, child!" My young friend may happen to read this, and she might not like it.

WHEN HE LOOKS IN YOUR EYES!

Do they flash and sparkle or does he find them dull and unattractive?

If your eyes are dull or have a yellow tinge, it's probably because you isn't getting enough vitamins. Eat a variety of foods every part of your body and if it gets better, you'll be better. So keep your liver healthy by eating a variety of foods every day. Green leafy vegetables extract of herbs and roots to stimulate the liver to normal function. Eat a variety of fruits daily, cleanse the elimination tract, and help to keep the blood vessels strong. Don't let your liver affect your looks. Start taking a variety of vitamins every day. They'll help him. Cost low, only 25¢-50¢. And insist on genuine "Fruit-itives".

Not used to amateur descriptive dramatic work, how being done by the Little Theatre movement in Canada, in the opinion of George D. Warfax, London, England, critic.

The English amateur dramatics movement, which declared Mr. Warfax in an interview at London, Ontario. For that reason he was severe in criticism, as the players must be judged on the basis of amateur standards and traditions of the stage.

The Little Theatre movement in Canada is stronger and more vigorous than in England, he said, and has financial support it lacks in the Old Country.

Will Not Attend Meetings

Germany Conferences

Italy will not attend the League of Nations conference meeting in New York on April 25, 1933, a conference organized by the League's semi-official announcement.

Relations between the Rome government and the league must be improved before the Fascist boycott on Germany is lessened, the declaration said.

Germany has also announced it will not attend.

Pigeons Are Happy

The Christian Science Monitor says San Francisco pigeons, could they be quoted, would be among these happiest over the end of their 90-day maritime strike. San Fransisco had begun to pick on pigeons to a dietary at Civic Center Plaza, Union Square, and even downtown streets as pickings became scarce with ship traffic at a standstill.

Pigeons are happy.

"A Case of Nerves"

All women at some period of their lives need a tonic, like Dr. Pierce's favorite "Fruit-itives". The young woman who suffers from nervousness, the expectant mother who has been unable to conceive, the woman who has had a miscarriage, should take this "Presto-Pack". Mrs. W. H. Smith, of London, England, said: "I used Dr. Pierce's Tonic Prescription for my nerves. I still take it occasionally to keep me well and strong. It is a tonic for all the nerves. I find it wonderful for a case of nerves." Buy from your druggist, 25¢-50¢.

This spring is just around the corner so we quite expect these days. The snow is melting rapidly and water is beginning to flow. Slighting will soon be a thing of the past. The thaw is the type much appreciated by the farmer, as the moisture is seeping into the ground, where as had the thaw been accompanied by a strong wind much of the snow would have been moved. Gophers have made their appearance, and the Hungarian partridge, which are around in abundant numbers, are beginning to mate.

THE DROUGHT PROBLEM.
There is no doubt that everyone on the prairies realize that drought is our greatest problem and one which must be solved in the very near future.

Mr. Percy H. Wright an old timer in Saskatchewan expressed the opinion in the Financial Post that the west would have its cycle of dry years will also recur therefore we should do something at once to deal with this problem in order that settlers in the affected areas will never again be reduced to the present low standard of living.

Mr. Wright went on to outline some of the steps already taken such as irrigating in areas, watered by Rocky Mountain streams, storing large quantities of fodder in underground silos, and the extensive use of crested wheat grass to prevent soil drifting. However he suggested that the most important gains to be made was by giving the human spring a "full" of snow water. He suggested that nearly every farm has a draw which could be dammed and from the reservoir thus formed selected areas could be flooded which would insure at least good gardens and some feed as alfalfa yields good after one flooding a year.

Every effort should be made to conserve our soil resources as they are the wealth of the wasteland losses of fertility by wind and water erosion should be eliminated as soon as possible.

JUST THINK IT OVER:

IT'S ALL UP TO YOU!
You are the one who has to decide whether you'll do it—or lay it aside. You are the one to make up your mind.

Whether you'll lead or will lieger behind, whether you'll try for the goal that's afar.

If you're contented to stay as you are, Take it or leave it, there's nothing to judge it over, it's all up to YOU!

was well expressed by the late Arthur Brisbane, the dean of American Editors, who wrote recently: "The women who do not want children should not be allowed to have them. He advised his listeners that the health of uneducated children and their happiness in life—and also discussed the matter of family limitations in general. Dr. Eva Fay, the famous gynecologist, spoke on the subject. The statement—in fact she is famous for her squibbles with the profession for her advocacy of birth control."

Dr. Fay's campaign has been a household preparation for many years, especially in the homes of educated women, who have investigated and found that a life free from constant worry and fear is the one that retains the youthful beauty of the body and the mind. She has a brilliant sparkle in the woman's eyes, men love so much. After all, one is entitled to live one's own life and to a good death, and if she can do anything to help others to do the same, no matter what you may have tried before, send five dollars by air-mail to the Fay Company, 250 Yonge Street, Vancouver, B. C., and receive free of charge a copy of her pamphlet on the view of expected results. Not sent C. O. D. Not sold in Drug Stores. State age when ordering. It would be to your advantage to buy a copy for your husband, as he might be everlasting gratitude. Dr. Fay's lecture on "Family Limitations," a very remarkable work—costs only 25¢ per copy.

The feed situation has been relieved considerably in this district since the arrival of several carloads of hay and oats. No serious loss of cattle or horses was reported, and with the warm weather grazing will again be possible. A carload of horses was shipped from this district on Monday, the buyer being George McLean of Cal-

and 25 cents more than the best Argentine.

These spreads are considerably greater than the extra quality of "Manitoba" usual to western, yet today, at these wide spreads, such quantities weekly are being purchased as will probably bring the "Carry-over" of Canadian wheat in August into the market at a level of not more than 40 million bushels.

Why is it that suddenly the world is purchasing so much Canadian wheat at such unusual premiums?

Two explanations are made. One is that the country in Europe, particularly Italy and Germany, are this year short of food for their people and so are willing to pay these prices. The other thought is that a good deal of Canadian wheat now being shipped is not for immediate consumption, but rather for storing up against possible war. Canadian wheat is particularly well-suited for this because I have good keeping qualities.

Sooner or later, however, these wide price spreads will narrow up.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. Strange,
Director Research Department,
Standard Oil Company, Ltd.

A most unusual situation exists at the moment with the price of wheat on world markets.

No 1 Northern Canadian wheat at Liverpool is selling for 4 cents a bushel more than the best Australian, 2 cents higher than the best Indian.
